Overview of Consolidated Business Performance for the Nine Months Ended September 30, 2020

Many corporations in Japan and the rest of the world have reported a substantial year-on-year decline in their earnings for the nine months ended September 30, 2020, amid the increasingly serious COVID-19 crisis. Consequently, companies are becoming cautious about making new investments and are suspending or postponing large projects. In the IT arena in which the Group operates, however, companies have been investing at an accelerated pace in implementing digital transformation (DX)1 solutions, including switching to teleworking and transitioning to cloud environments as well as streamlining and automating business processes. In this business environment, the Group offers value-added products and services to assist corporate clients in moving forward with DX.

To get through the significant changes in the current socioeconomic environment brought about by the COVID-19 crisis, we have asked all our employees to switch to teleworking to protect their health and safety as well as to achieve greater work efficiency. In addition, on October 1, 2020, we merged three of our key subsidiaries operating in Japan to consolidate their human, intellectual-property, and financial resources in an effort to achieve even greater operational efficiency and productivity.

The Group achieved consolidated business results by segment for the period under review as follows:

(i) Open System Infrastructure Business Segment

The Group achieved a solid increase in sales of our core LifeKeeper2, thanks to its robust perpetual licensing business in Japan, which more than offset its declining sales in the Americas and Europe, both affected by the pandemic. In addition, sales of Red Hat Enterprise Linux3 and other software products sourced from Red Hat Inc.4 as well as revenues from OSS5-related products and support services increased over the same period the previous fiscal year. As a result, net sales in this segment increased 6.4% year on year to 6,089 million yen.

The segment income was down 21.8% year on year to 42 million yen, due to additional R&D spending incurred to upgrade LifeKeeper and increased expenses associated with establishing new businesses.

(ii) Application Business Segment

Revenues from software applications for MFPs6 declined. This was partly because an increasing number of corporate users switched to a subscription model7 for these applications, the revenue from which was not recognized up front during the period under review, but was to be spread evenly over the following quarters, and partly because sales of office MFPs, in which these applications were to be installed, were slow due to the pandemic. In contrast, revenues from the provision of support for system development and implementation were strong, especially for educational institutions. Sales of both Gluegent series8 products and the management support system for financial institutions were also strong. As a result, net sales in this segment increased 0.6% year on year to 4,439 million yen.

A year-on-year increase in revenues from the provision of support for system development and implementation to educational institutions had a positive impact on the segment income. In addition, income from the provision of support for system development and implementation to financial institutions was up due to the absence of unprofitable projects that had affected negatively the profitability of this segment the previous fiscal year. These favorable factors were more than offset by the declined revenues from software applications for the MFPs mentioned earlier. As a result, this segment posted a loss of 48 million yen, compared with a loss of 128 million yen for the same period the previous fiscal year.

The Group's combined net sales of these two segments jumped 3.9% year on year to 10,529 million year for the period under review, which marked record-high nine-month sales for the Group.

The Group posted an operating loss of 6 million yen, compared with an operating loss of 74 million yen the previous year, and an ordinary loss of 2 million yen, compared with an ordinary loss of 34 million yen. The Group posted a profit of 112 million yen attributable to owners of parent, compared with a loss of 74 million yen the previous fiscal year. This was primarily because the sale of the Web service business for broadcasters and the social and public outsourcing service business generated a transfer gain of 192 million yen.

The Group's key management metrics EBITDA (the sum of operating profit, depreciation, and amortization of goodwill) and ROIC (ratio obtained by dividing operating profit after tax by the sum of shareholders' equity and interest-bearing debts) are as follows for the period under review:

EBITDA: 62 million yen, compared with -7 million yen for the same period the previous year

ROIC (annualized): -0.3%, compared with -3.2% for the same period the previous year

1 Digital transformation(DX)

A process in which a company uses data and digital technology to transform its products, services, and business models to more effectively respond to constantly changing business environments and deliver greater value to customers and society as well as to transform its business processes and organizational structure and culture to gain greater competitive advantage.

2 LifeKeeper

A failover software product that automatically switches a failed primary server to a backup server.

3 Red Hat Enterprise Linux

(Additional information)

When estimating the amount of impairment loss on non-current assets and the recoverability of deferred tax assets, we assumed at this time that the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on the Group's business performance would be limited and that the spread of the pandemic would trend down toward the end of the fiscal year under review and beyond.

However, as the extent of the impact of the pandemic on the Group's business performance is difficult to predict with certainty, a change in assumptions mentioned above might affect the Group's financial position, results of operations, and cash flow performance going forward.
